

Citizen Resolution # 140123

Create and implement plans for a sustainable wild pheasant population in Wisconsin

Pheasants are an important and historic natural resource in the state of Wisconsin. Our current model is not focused on the wild population of pheasants that do live in our state. Instead, it mainly involves stocking and taking of pen raised birds. The DNR should instead focus on developing habitat, assessments, and studies to help expand our current wild population. This increased focus on grassland habitats will be a boost to many other species of game and non - game alike. If the wild population reached a sustainable level it could also reduce stocking costs and pheasant stamp dollars could be further invested in sustainable support.

Would you support the DNR shifting focus to building a sustainable wild pheasant population in Wisconsin?
