Tom, just a quick update. We were conducting the drilling project at the above site on 3/11-12/19 and have 3 of the 6 proposed wells installed.

During the drilling of the 4th monitoring well 20' of Augers were locked up in the boring and they were unable to retrieve them. The drillers (Geiss Soil & Samples, LLC) spent approximately 3-4 hours trying to get the augers out with no success. The auger was torched off below ground surface and abandoned with bentonite. We did have problems with one other boring as far as the drilling process, but were able to complete the monitoring well install.

We will have to contract with a different driller that has a larger rig to finish this project. I will be sending a cost cap for additional mob/demob and per diem for us and a subcontractor. I believe we are fine with the footages that we have approved as Geiss was not going to bill for the boring they could not complete.

Any questions please call or email.
Thanks,

Jason Powell
