Steve,

Regarding your current Groundwater Monitoring Report for the Onalaska Landfill, I discussed the necessity of a NR 712 Professional Engineer (P.E.) certification with our program coordinator. In this case, your contract is a “goods-and-services” contract which specifically excludes any interpretation by the current consultant and requires only groundwater sampling and reporting. In addition, it is my understanding that there is precedent for not requiring P.E. certification at some sites where all engineered remedial activities were previously implemented by others and groundwater sampling and reporting are the only remaining activities. Therefore, certification by a “hydrogeologist” as defined by NR 712 will be sufficient in this instance. Thanks.

Steve,

Here's the guidance on NR 712 certifications. I believe the Onalaska GW Monitoring report would fall under the heading of “NR 724 Submittals,” so it looks like it needs both a PG and a PE certification. The required certification language is on the last page of the guidance. Let me know if you have questions or concerns.

Our program associate said it's fine if you just email me the certification page. Assuming the upload you made this morning eventually appears in the folder where we generally retrieve them, I can simply have her replace the signature page. If your upload fails to come through for some reason, I will let you know. Thanks.

Subject: Invoice - Onalaska Landfill

Mae,

Attached is the final invoice for the Town of Onalaska Landfill Superfund Site. In addition, I have attached the completed/signed WDNR Invoice for Professional Services. If I recall correctly, since it is lump sum we don't need to attached any of the backup information (such as laboratory and field equipment costs).

In addition, the PDF of the report and backup (laboratory results, sampling schedule) have been uploaded to the WNDR document submittal page. I will also be sending out th4e hard copies to you and the EPA today (assuming the post office is open).

Please

let me know if you have any questions or require additional information.
