Chis Lilek and I did a haz waste inspection of the facility. No building interior photos were allowed.

CCP Saukville. Photo looking west (right) to south (left). The building on the right houses the deep well for coolant water/hydraulic control.

CCP Saukville, looking south from the south exit of the office building. This shot is just left of the panarama above. The soil vapor extraction system building can be seen in the foreground on the left with the small white stack. It was running when we were there.
