

Orchid Heights Ponds Water Hyacinth and Water Lettuce Emergency Control Project
Appendix 2: Photographs

Water Lettuce (Pistia stratiodes)

Flowering adult

Flower at base of leaf

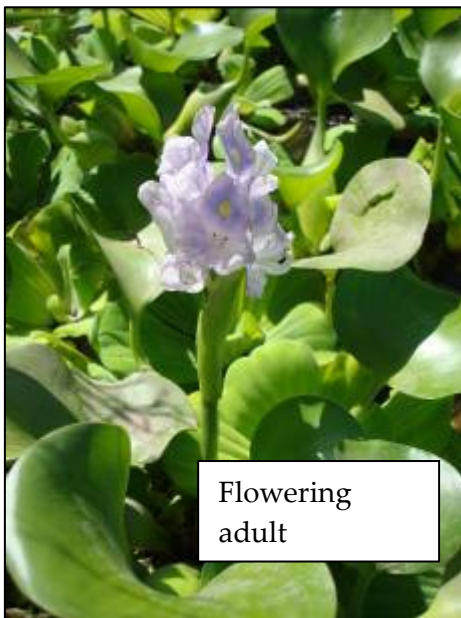

Mother and daughter plant, connected by a stolon (indicated by an arrow).

Few individual plants

Dense mat

Water Hyacinth (Eichhornia crassipes)

Flowering adult

Adult

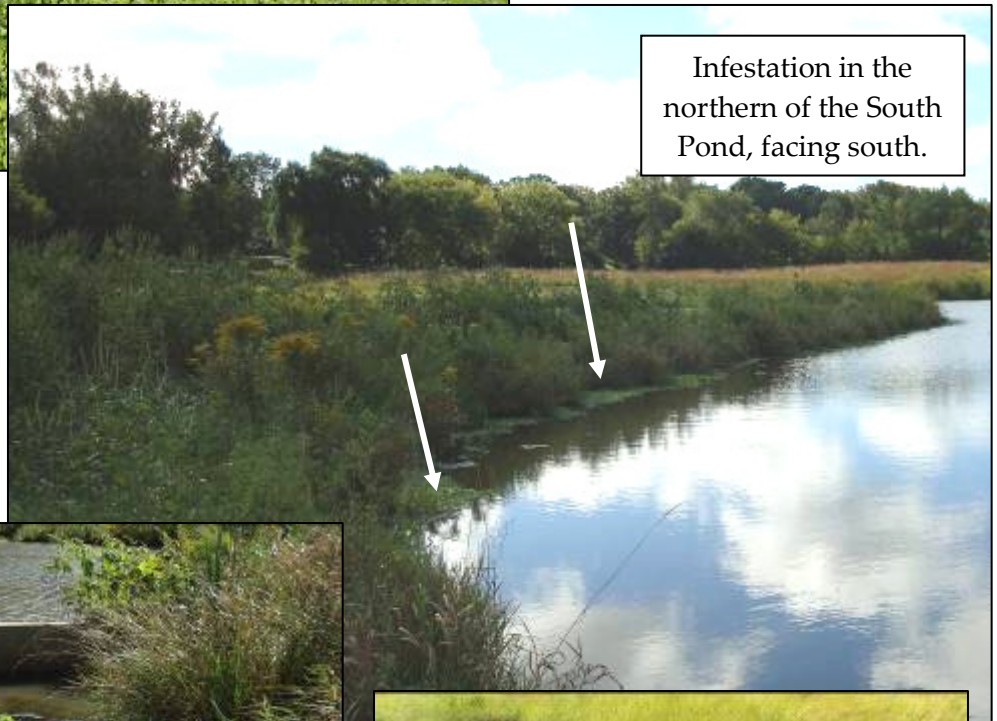

Dense mat

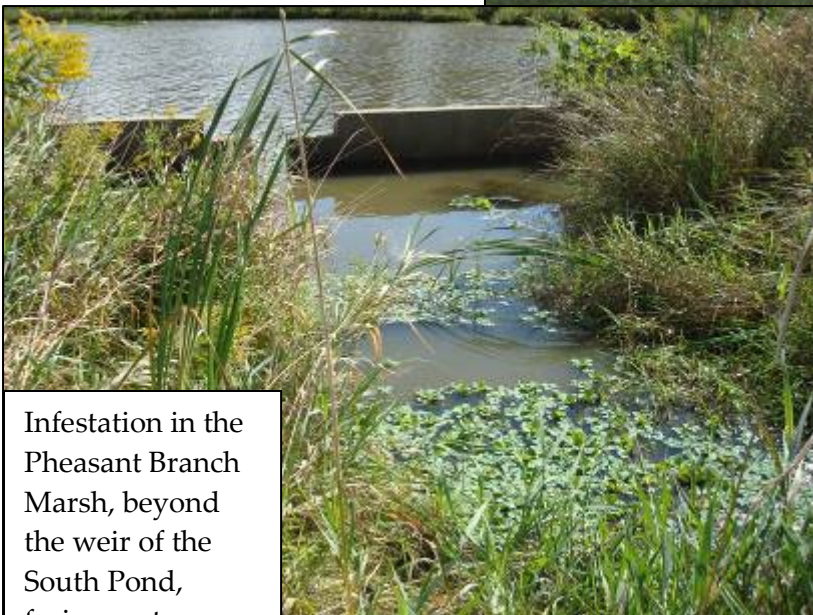

Orchid Heights Ponds Water Hyacinth and Water Lettuce Emergency Control Project
Appendix 2: Photographs

Infestation in the southern end of the North Pond, facing west.

Infestation in the northern of the South Pond, facing south.

Infestation in the Pheasant Branch Marsh, beyond the weir of the South Pond, facing east.

Water Lettuce found in ice skating rink depression off line of ponds- moved by animals/birds?

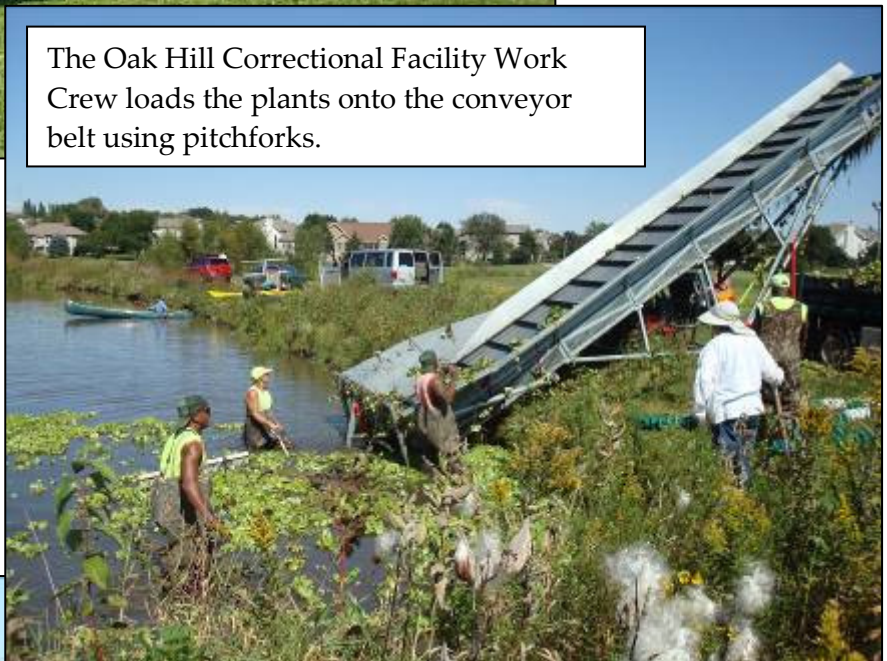

Orchid Heights Ponds Water Hyacinth and Water Lettuce Emergency Control Project

Appendix 2: Photographs

Dane County Aquatic Plant Conveyor Belt and 8-ton truck.

The Oak Hill Correctional Facility Work Crew loads the plants onto the conveyor belt using pitchforks.

Corralling the plants using a swimming pool lane boom and canoe.

Orchid Heights Ponds Water Hyacinth and Water Lettuce Emergency Control Project

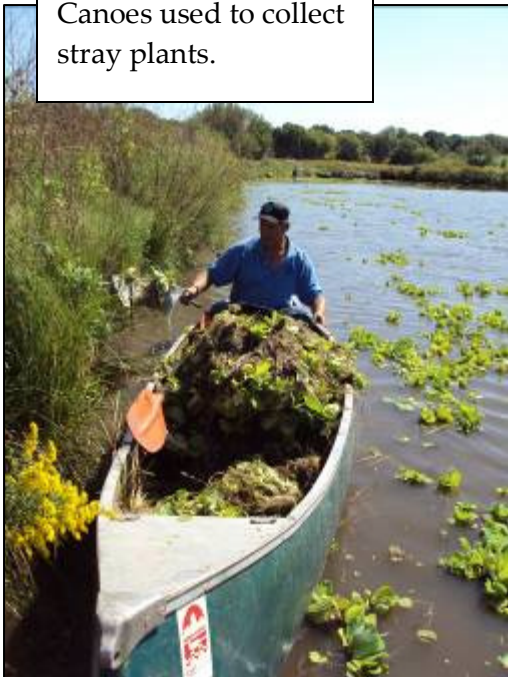

Appendix 2: Photographs

Workers slowly pull the boom as the kayakers pushed against the boom to corral the plants towards the conveyer belt in calm winds.

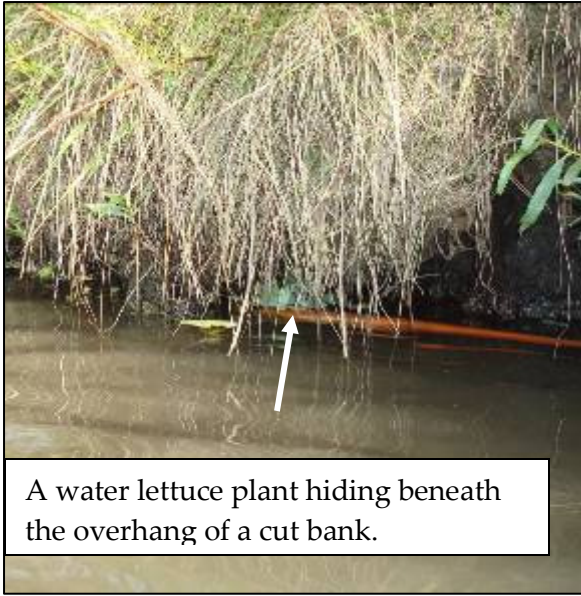

Canoes used to collect stray plants.

A volunteer manually removes scattered plants with a bait net.

Orchid Heights Ponds Water Hyacinth and Water Lettuce Emergency Control Project
Appendix 2: Photographs

A water lettuce plant hiding beneath the overhang of a cut bank.

One week later-
outflow of south pond
into Pheasant Branch
marsh- a few stray
plants were removed.

One week later- north pond – a few stray plants were removed

