

Who We Are...

The Fox-Wolf Watershed Alliance (FWWA) is an independent, non-profit, organization that identifies issues and advocates effective policies and actions to protect, restore, and sustain the water resources of Wisconsin's Fox-Wolf River Basin.

The FWWA Vision:

We see the watershed of the Fox and Wolf Rivers as having:

- Safe and accessible opportunities for aquatic recreation
- Sustainable, balanced, natural, edible fish communities
- A shoreline environment that enhances and sustains the wildlife of the river and bay
- Sustainable businesses, industry and development that are in harmony with and support the environment
- Waters that support their full range of uses, which result in no waters on the "impaired waters list"
- A sustainable supply of groundwater and drinking water

Your Support Allows us to Make a Difference in the Community

School Presentations

Discussion & hands-on activities teach students K-12 about runoff and their impact on water quality! Free presentations offered to all NESWC community schools

Annual Watershed Cleanup

Held in April each year. FWWA organizes cleanup sites and volunteers and also works to collaborate with other groups and cleanup efforts.

Northeast Wisconsin Stormwater Consortium

A subsidiary of FWWA, NEWSC is a network of communities sharing resources to educate residents and address stormwater issues.

Watershed Recovery

Working with stakeholders to develop a cost-effective, watershed based strategy for improving water quality. Working with partners to develop a water quality trading program for the basin. Photo credit: Steve Seilo

Rain Barrel Workshops

Working with area municipalities, church groups, and other non-profits, FWWA takes the work out of hosting a build-your-own rain barrel workshop

Exhibiting

Partnering with NEWSC, we exhibit at festivals, markets, and local events across NE Wisconsin empowering residents to Renew Our Waters with simple changes they can make at home.

Annual Watershed Conference

Topics include: Regulatory updates, Watershed & Stormwater Management, and Innovative Technologies
